Co-Founder, Solutions for Intimacy

Author, “A Woman’s Guide to Thriving after Prostate Cancer”

Cindie Hubiak is the author of “A Woman’s Guide to Thriving after Prostate Cancer” and co-founder of Solutions for Intimacy, where she guides couples and individuals through the physical, emotional, mental and spiritual aspects of intimacy following treatment of prostate cancer.

After her husband Steve Frohman was treated for prostate cancer, the couple searched for months, to no avail, for resources to help them overcome the emotional and intimate challenges associated with the disease. Determined to create a solution and assist others in the same position, Hubiak and Frohman founded Solutions for Intimacy, which offers prostate cancer survivors and their partners the tools, knowledge and resources to live sexually fulfilling lives after prostate cancer.

In “The Guide,” which Hubiak authored in response to the limited support available for women impacted by prostate cancer, she shares her personal struggles and stages of the grieving process, as well as the coping strategies she explored throughout the various stages of the disease.

In addition to operating Solutions for Intimacy, Hubiak serves as president and CEO of the Arizona Society of CPAs, and has volunteered for more than 20 years as a sexuality educator. Prior to her current role, she served as tax manager for an international accounting firm, as director of human resources for a company of 1,500 employees, as general manager of a manufacturing plant in Singapore, and as director of finance in Europe for a worldwide manufacturer.

She serves as a trustee for a mutual fund and has been twice honored as one of Phoenix’s top 10 outstanding women in business and the community. She holds a Master’s in Business Administration and Bachelor of Science in accounting from Arizona State University.

Hubiak and Frohman reside in Scottsdale, Ariz.
